Foreword

As the Chief Executive Officer of the ATSB, I am pleased to set out our commitments in support of the Australian Government’s Multicultural Access and Equity Policy: Respecting diversity. Improving responsiveness.

With the implementation of this Multicultural Action Plan, the ATSB aims to enhance its understanding of the needs, as they relate to our work, of culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) communities and the people that comprise them. As part of the Plan, we will continue to ensure the ATSB’s staff are culturally aware and familiar with and receptive to the needs and issues of our CALD stakeholders.

To support my personal commitment to multicultural access and equity, I have appointed Mr Adam Charlton to champion the core obligations and objectives of our Plan. Mr Charlton has appropriate tertiary qualifications and extensive experience in working with people from diverse cultural backgrounds and I am grateful he has agreed to take on this important leadership role.

This inaugural Plan lays out the ATSB’s vision for and commitment to multicultural access and equity. Over the coming years we will continue to learn more about how to realise this vision and commitment in practical ways. In the interim, I encourage all ATSB staff to make themselves familiar with this Plan and contribute to its overall success.

Our Agency

Who we are

The Australian Transport Safety Bureau (ATSB) is Australia’s national transport safety investigator. The ATSB is established as an independent agency by the Transport Safety Investigation Act 2003 (TSI Act). It is funded by the Australian Government to deliver improved transport safety in Australia, including through:
- independent ‘no blame’ investigation of transport accidents and other safety occurrences
- safety data recording, analysis and research
- fostering safety awareness, knowledge and action.

What we do

The ATSB’s primary function is to improve transport safety by investigating safety occurrences and communicating what we learn. To achieve this, we:
- focus our resources where they are most likely to result in safety improvements
- harness the expertise and information necessary to our safety role
- conduct impartial, systemic and timely safety investigations
- identify safety issues based on evidence and expert analysis
- report safety issues clearly and objectively, without attributing blame or liability
- ensure the significance of safety issues is clearly understood by all concerned
- promote effective safety action.

Our Agency Multicultural Plan (AMP)

This AMP has been produced by the Organisational Development Branch in consultation with other business areas responsible for policies and programs that may interact with CADL communities. It is designed to recognise and build upon a number of existing business priorities including:
- Regional and international engagement – whereby we will promote engagement with our international counterpart agencies and with relevant multilateral organisations, ensuring that safety lessons and operational innovations are shared internationally. We will collaborate on improving the international standards for transport accident investigation. We will actively support initiatives to build aviation and maritime safety investigation capability in the Asia-Pacific region.
- Strengthening stakeholder relationships – whereby we will maintain our reputation with industry participants and the travelling public through safety communication and education, and through objective and transparent investigations that include appropriate levels of consultation.

Accordingly, our core obligations and key objectives in support of this AMP are detailed within the enclosed tables.
Agency Multicultural Plan - Core Obligations and Objectives

1. Leadership – providing the guidance and direction for staff to further their understanding of Multicultural Access and Equity and the needs of our CALD stakeholders.
